

SCOPE OF WORK

BACKGROUND

The North Carolina Department of Health and Human Services is responsible for ensuring the health, safety and wellbeing of all North Carolinians. NCDHHS DSS has the following shared vision for the Family Support Program Services: Families increase protective factors to provide their children with safe, stable, nurturing relationships and environments to reach their full potential. NCDHHS DSS is guided by both federal and state legislation designed to protect children and build safe, stable, nurturing families. The following federal and state requirements govern the administration of the Family Support Programs:

- Promoting Safe and Stable Families Amendments (PSSF) of 2001
- Community-Based Child Abuse Prevention (CBCAP) (P.L. 111-320)
- North Carolina Child Welfare Reform (Rylan's Law)
- Families First Prevention Services Act (Family First)

These legislative requirements focus on community-based family support services, parent leadership, interagency collaboration, prevention services, high quality implementation of evidence-based and evidence-informed programs, and a continuum of evaluation approaches.

Research confirms child abuse has a long-term negative impact on a child's life and the entire community, harming both quality of life and prosperity. Children who experience abuse and/or severe neglect often develop toxic levels of stress, which can damage the developing architecture of a child's brain. This damage can lead to life-long behavioral changes, such as violence, poverty, substance abuse, child abuse and neglect as well as long-term intellectual, behavioral, and physical and mental health problems.

Quality, trauma-informed prevention programs that strengthen family resilience and protective factors offer great promise for improving a child's overall well-being. By integrating evidence-based and evidence-informed programs into the community service array, NC can increase the capacity of caregivers to care for their children, help children develop healthy coping mechanisms, improve caregiver-child relationships, and impact the whole family positively. Based on research, North Carolina Family Support Programs will support community-based evidence-based, evidence-informed programs and practices that provide outreach, support and services to individuals and families identified as being at-risk of compromised health and safety to eliminate or reduce those risks by promoting protective factors that strengthen and support families.

Brief History: Durham Cooperative Extension's Welcome Baby (WB) Resource Program supports families with children from birth through age 5 using Smart Start funds, and up to age 17 using Duke Endowment funds, by providing accessible, evidence-based child development information, positive parenting strategies, and both emotional and practical support. Founded in 1987 as a primary prevention initiative to support new parents and promote positive parenting from the earliest stages of family life, building on the foundation of Prevent Child Abuse—Durham (1983).

PURPOSE
